Code of Conduct

All are equal in the Mother's court. To protect the sanctity, heritage and safety of the mandir, we humbly request every visitor, devotee and volunteer to follow these rules.

Entry and darshan

- Dress modestly and leave your footwear at the designated place.
- Keep calm in front of the sanctum and put your mobile on silent.
- Stand in the queue. Give way to elders, people with disabilities, pregnant women and mothers carrying infants.
- On festival days, follow the instructions of the mandir volunteers who manage the crowd.

Photos and video

- Ask the purohit's permission before taking photos or video in the sanctum; do not use flash.
- Flying drones without permission is not allowed.
- Part of the Rajbari houses a correctional home. Do not photograph it or try to enter it, and follow the security staff's instructions.

Sanctity and cleanliness

- Alcohol, tobacco, gutkha and all intoxicants are prohibited in the mandir premises.
- Make offerings and bhog through the purohit according to the mandir's custom; do not take outside food into the sanctum.
- Keep the premises clean and use the bins. Please carry cloth or paper bags instead of plastic.
- Pets are not allowed in the sanctum.

Respect for heritage

- Do not write on, touch or climb the walls, murals or old structures.
- Respect every devotee regardless of caste, religion or gender. Harassment or misbehaviour will not be tolerated—please inform a volunteer.

Dakshina and money safety

- Give dakshina only at the counter or to the official number shown on the mandir website, and collect your token.
- The mandir never asks for your UPI PIN, OTP or bank details. Anyone who does is attempting fraud.

Safety

- Keep children in sight at all times.
- Do not swim at the Ganga or Padma ghats, and take extra care near the river during the monsoon.
- Lalgola is a border area: carry an ID and follow the instructions of the BSF and the administration.
